ASYLUMS FOR ORPHANS BUILT.

Prisons Overhauled and Renaired. and Prisoners Who Had Been Detained Unreasonably Without Trial, Released.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, October 22.—Major-General Leonard Wood to-day made a statement as to contents of his several reports as Governor-General of Cuba. It is, in part, as follows:

The civil report of the island will not be published until the end of the present calendar year. It will cover, in detail, the work under the various civil departments of the military government during the entire present year. Under the head of hespitals and charities it will be found that every town of conse-quence in the island has been provided with a hospital well equipped with necces-with a hospital well equipples with the sary supplies and appliances.

"Asylums for orphan children have been established wherever necessary. It is the purpose if the insular government to establish four State institutions, two for boys and two for girls, two to be industrial and agricultural, and two to be correctional and industrial. rectional and industrial.

PRISONS IMPROVED. PRISONS IMPROVED.

"The prisons have been overhauled and repaired from one end of the island to the other, and the sanitary conditions improved. The Military Government has had its agents go over the island investigating every case under detention, every case under detention, and many hundreds of prisoners who had been de-tained for long periods of time awalting trial, have been released, only such being released, however, as had awaited trial for a period as long, or longer, than they would have been sentenced, had they been found guilty. Judges who have been found dere-lict have been dismissed, and every effort is being made to impress upon the com-munity at large that individual rights and individual liberty are the foundations of individual liberty are the foundations of neighbors are the indications of every good and stable government. Correctional courts have been established throughout the larger cities where the trial is oral and summary, as in our police courts. Their success has been phenomenal, and while opposed at first, every town is now anxious to have one, and or-ders already have been published establishing thirty more.

"Sanitary work of great importance has been carried on from one end of Cuba to the other. Two eastern provinces in the island of Cuba for the first time have passed through a summer without a case of yellow fever, and in general there has been a great improvement in health throughout the islands. Plans in detail are now ready for advertisement for paving and sewering in a thoroughly first class and modern manner the city of Havana and its suburbs, and there is every reason to believe that in a few years yellow fever in Cuba can be gotten under the same control as now exists in

The tobacco crop of last year was an immense one. This year the sugar crop will be between 550,000 and 600,000 and if the present prices continue the money obtained by the planters will equal the amount received by the planters for their great crop of a million tons. The value of this year's crop of sugar and the coming tobacco crop will be conservatively one hundred million

The Same Sweet Song. A scent of violets in the air,

And singing birds;
A beauty new born, fresh and fair,
Too deep for words; A little maid with floral crown On hair of gold,

And blushing cheeks where lies the kiss Of lover bold. Whose boyish lips a story tell Into her ear, As, bending low, he whispers soft,

"I love you, dear!" The breath of roses in the air, And lilaes sweet; A sunny sky of azure blue
The morn doth greet,
A maiden crowned with womanhood,

And robed in white.

With smiling lips, and in her eyes A tender light, Before the altar proudly stands, And answers clear.

The one who whispers soft and low,
"I love you, dear!"

A whirl of snowflakes in the air, A cold, gray sky, Where scudding winds and wintry winds Go sweeping by;

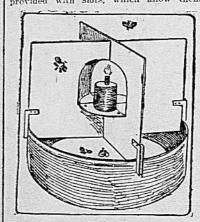

oman with a crown of years

And faded check, where youth's fair

Once lingered there, Beside the hearthstone knits and rocks, While some one near Bends low his whiteend head and says: "I love you, dear!"

Catches and Kills the Moths.

The affinity of the moth for the flame is well known, and this inordinate is utilized in the device illustrated here-with to exterminate the insect. A metal-lic receptacle is provided, which has the sides sloping toward each other at the top. On this receptacle are placed two plates of tin or other polished metal. provided with slots, which allow them supporting a small lamp on the shelf formed at the centre. The receptacle underneath is partially filled with water, and a small quantity of coal oil is placed on the surface to kill the moths or other insects, which, attracted by the bright flame and the numerous reflections or the surface of the tin, will circle around the apparatus until they strike against one of the reflectors, falling into the liquid. The slanting sides prevent the insects from crawling out, and the oil soon puts an end to their existence. When the room has been cleared the lamp and reflectors are lifted off the basin and the contents thrown out. A patent on this device has been granted to Seward A. Haseltine, of Springfield, Mo.

FLIGHT OF THE EMPRESS.

TACOMA, WASH., Oct. 22.—The Oriental liner Glenogle, which reached Tacoma last night, brings an interesting story of the flight of the Empress Dowager from Pekin. The escape of the court furnishes one of the most entertaining stories of one of the most entertaining stories of the Chinese campaign. The Shanghai Mercury tells the story as follows:

"It appears that in accordance with the regular practice of the Chinese officials in similar cases, false reports of suppositious victories over the allies were persistently rendered to the palace, with the result that the court was hilled into a feeling of fancied security; that it was not until the allies had actually entered the capital that the real facts became known to the Empress, and a rude awakening took place.

"On the early morning of the 15th of August the Dowager, in company with the Emperor, left the palace clothed in common Chinese cotton garments, traveling in an ordinary Chinese cart, and accom-panied by an insignificant retinue. Such was the hurry of their departure that no money or valuables in any quantity were taken with them, and for several days the Imperial party is said to have suffered great hardships. The only food with which they were supplied was the common mil-let of the country, and at night they had to sleep in wayside ims on the rough brick kungs furnished for the accommodation of travelers. "Among these who accompanied the court were Prince Tuan, Kang Yi and Wang Wenshao, and it is said that the Empress', feeling sympathy with the latter on account of his age, urged him to return to his residence at the capital, but the old man begged with tears to be allowed to shore in the exile of the court lowed to share in the exile of the court. The humiliating effect of this experience upon the proud Manchus can better be imagined than described, and it has evidently inspired a desire for vengeance, a is indicated in the secret orders sent to Li Hung Chang for the recapture of Tien Tsin and Pekin, as well as by the tone of Tsin and Pekin, as well as by the tone of the recent edicts.

"In the light of the above narrative, the reference in the account given by the Sin Wen Pao of the report in the disgrace of Prince Tuan to the discomforts attending the flight from Pekin, affords some circumstantial evidence of the accuracy, and the fact that the same pacture of the recent property is the same pacture. per in its issue of this morning again re-fers to the Empress' displeasure with the Prince, adds further weight to its previous

It brought only the newspaper corres pondents who usually accompany Mr. Bryan, They had been separated from him at Buffalo, and had not been able to connect with him after leaving that city. His failure to reach here at the time expected was due to a series of unscheduled occurrences. In order to make connections it was necessary for the car to leave Buffalo at 11 o'clock last night. Mr. Bryan's meeting in that city kept him so late that it was impossible for him to leave with it. and he directed that it should preceed without tim, intending to follow on a later train, and believing that he could overtake the car at Pittsburg this morning. When the car with its load of correspondents reached Pittsburg they discov-ered that Mr. Bryan had not arrived, and that he could not reach that city in time to allow the car to be attached to the regular train on the Ohio River Railroad, which was the only train of the day that would reach Huntington in time to allow Mr. Bryan to make a speech there to-morrow morning. They, therefore, proceeded on their way to Huntington, and at Wheel-ing, learned that Mr. Bryan had concluded to attempt to come to Huntington by way of Columbus, Ohio, expecting to reach this city early to-morrow morning.

The Prince of Wales probably has learned the art of dining as well as any gentleman, titled or otherwise, in the world. The Kaiser also knows palatable dishes when he sees them Germany's ruler cares when he sees them. Germany's ruler cares for game, feathered game, more than for any other viand, affecting a special fondness for salmi, or stew made of thrushes. Another royal example of ability to recognize a good dish is furnished by the Czar of Russia, who is just disloyal enough to his country to confess publicly a preference for French cooking; this, however, doesn't say that he does not care for Russia's cooking.
